The opinion of the Court of Appeals in

The opinion of the Court of Appeals in the case of Keller and Hickman vs. Stone and James A. Walker vs. Stone, which was delivered by Judge Cardwell on yesterday morning, was one of more than ordinary interest. Sometime in December, 1888, General James A. Walker, who was a candidate for Congress from the Ninth district, was defeated by Judge Rhea, the Democratic candidate, in November last, applied to James A. Stone, clerk of the Hustings Court of Bristol and registrar of Bristol precinct, for copy of the registration and poll books of that precinct. The registrar refused to permit copies of these books to be made, but permitted General Walker to Inspect the registration books. He refused, however, to permit any inspection of the poll books which he claimed were sealed and field away with the ballots.

General Walker applied to the Supreme Court of Appeals for writ of maniamus to require the registrar and clerk to furnish him with copies of the registration and poll books of the precinct, or to permit such copies to be made. The Court decided that under the provision of the statute the clerk and registrar could not be required to make copies of these records, nor could he be required oy mandamus to permit such copies to be made under his supervision, but that the petitioners had a right to inspect the books and to take notes therefrom at reasonable atmes and to a reasonable extent. As this right was never denied as to the registration books, the petition as to these was dismissed, but the mandamus was awarded directing the clerk to permit an inspection of the poll books. This right was conceded by counsel for the clerk in their brief.
